The World is Changing. Are You Ready?

Take a look at the business landscape today. The way the world buys, sources, and moves goods is transforming at lightning speed. We have entered an era where procurement is no longer just a back-office function focused on finding the lowest price; it is the very heartbeat of global business survival.

Think About The Massive Shifts We've Witnessed Recently

Global Supply Chain Transformation

- Geopolitical shifts and market disruptions have proven that agile, resilient supply chains are non-negotiable.

Why Procurement Professionals Are in High Demand

Get CIPS →

If you have ever considered elevating your career, there has never been a better time.

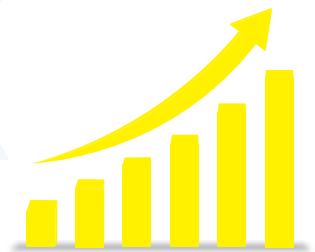

What used to be viewed as a tactical, operational role has transformed into a strategic powerhouse. Today, organisations are desperately seeking visionary leaders who can navigate complex supplier networks and drive cost efficiencies. Highly skilled professionals who have completed a certified CIPS Course are commanding higher salaries, better benefits, and a seat at the executive table. Employers aren't just looking for buyers anymore; they are looking for strategic partners who can protect the bottom line.

Recent Supply Chain Shortages Have Highlighted One Undeniable Truth

companies cannot survive, let alone thrive, without robust procurement strategies. As a result, the global procurement industry is expanding at an unprecedented rate, creating a massive talent gap.

CIPS Level 2

Certificate in Procurement and Supply Operations

At Level 2, the focus is entirely on the what of procurement. It strips away complex strategy to ensure the candidate understands the fundamental vocabulary, processes, and administrative mechanics of buying goods and services.

Target Audience

- The Blank Slate: Individuals who have never worked in a business environment or are brand new to the supply chain profession.
- Cross-Functional Staff: Administrative assistants, finance clerks, or project coordinators who occasionally handle purchasing tasks and need to understand standard procedures.
- Career Switchers: Professionals from entirely different industries seeking an entry-level foothold in supply chain management.

Entry Requirements

- You do not need any prior work experience, academic qualifications, or background in business to enroll.

Course Structure

- L2M1 - Introducing Procurement and Supply (6)
- L2M2 - Procurement and Supply Operations (3)
- L2M3 - Stakeholder Relationships (3)
- L2M4 - Systems Technology (3)
- L2M5 - Inventory, Logistics and Expediting (3)

Five core modules make up the required 18 credits.

Learning Outcomes & Real-World Application

Deconstructing the Buying Cycle

Candidates learn the chronological steps of procurement from identifying a need within the company to creating a requisition, issuing a Purchase Order (PO), and verifying receipt of goods.

Supplier Identification

They develop the ability to find reliable suppliers using basic market research and understand the difference between local, national, and global sourcing at a high level.

Systems and Data Administration

The course emphasises the importance of accurate data entry and utilising Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) or basic purchasing software to track orders and maintain inventory records.

Stakeholder Communication

Learners are taught how to professionally interact with internal teams (the people requesting the goods) and external suppliers (the people providing them), ensuring smooth day-to-day operations.

CIPS Level 3

Advanced Certificate in Procurement and Supply Operations

If Level 2 is about understanding the process, Level 3 is about executing it efficiently. This tier moves candidates from purely administrative tasks to active operational management and basic problem-solving.

Target Audience

- Tactical Operators: Junior buyers, procurement assistants, and stock controllers who have been in the role for 1-2 years and are ready to take on more independent responsibility.
- Operational Problem Solvers: Staff who are frequently tasked with resolving delivery delays, inventory shortages, or minor supplier disputes.

Entry Requirements

- You do not need any prior work experience, academic qualifications, or background in business to enroll.

Course Structure

- L3M1 - Procurement and Supply Environments (6)
- L3M2 - Ethical Procurement and Supply (6)
- L3M3 - Contract Administration (6)
- L3M4 - Team Dynamics and Change (6)
- L3M5 - Socially Responsible Procurement (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L3M6 - Socially Responsible Warehousing and Distribution (6) (ELECTIVE)

Four core modules make up the 24 required credits. One elective module (Optional) makes up the six remaining credits.

Learning Outcomes & Real-World Application

Inventory and Logistics Mechanics

Candidates learn how to calculate optimal stock levels, understand the costs associated with holding inventory, and monitor the physical movement of goods to prevent bottlenecks.

Contract Administration

They learn how to read and manage the execution of a contract. While they may not write the legal terms, they learn to track deliverables and ensure the supplier is meeting agreed-upon timelines.

Applied Ethics and Sustainability

The curriculum introduces the practical application of Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR). Candidates learn to spot unethical practices (like modern slavery or environmental dumping) deep within their supply tiers.

Team Dynamics

Learners begin to understand how human behaviour and team structures impact procurement efficiency, learning techniques to collaborate more effectively across different business departments.

CIPS Level 4

Diploma in Procurement and Supply

Level 4 is the pivotal transition point in the CIPS journey. It marks the shift from tactical execution to commercial strategy. This is the industry standard for established professionals and the most common entry point for those with existing business experience.

Target Audience

- The Commercial Buyer: Procurement officers, category executives, and sourcing specialists who are responsible for spending company money wisely and negotiating directly with suppliers.
- Future Leaders: Professionals preparing to step into management roles where they must justify their procurement decisions to senior leadership.

Entry Requirements

- You need to hold two A-Levels (or an international equivalent) or have a CIPS Level 3 Advanced Certificate, or possess at least two years of relevant work experience in a business environment.

Course Structure

- L4M1 - Scope and Influence of Procurement and Supply (12)
- L4M2 - Defining Business Need (6)
- L4M3 - Stakeholder Relationships (6)
- L4M4 - Ethical and Responsible Sourcing (6)
- L4M5 - Commercial Negotiation (6)
- L4M6 - Supplier Relationships (6)
- L4M7 - Whole-Life Asset Management (6)
- L4M8 - Procurement and Supply in Practice (12)

Eight compulsory modules worth 60 credits.

Learning Outcomes & Real-World Application

Commercial Negotiation Mastery

Candidates move beyond basic haggling. They learn psychological negotiation tactics, how to prepare a negotiation matrix, establish a Best Alternative to a Negotiated Agreement (BATNA), and secure terms that protect the business.

Strategic Sourcing

Learners develop the ability to analyse global markets. They learn to evaluate supplier financial stability, assess market monopolies, and choose between single, dual, or multi-sourcing strategies based on risk.

Contract Law and Specification Drafting

They gain the skills to translate complex business needs into watertight technical specifications and understand the legal frameworks that govern international commercial contracts.

Supplier Relationship Management (SRM)

Instead of treating all suppliers equally, candidates learn to segment them. They discover how to build collaborative partnerships with critical suppliers while managing routine suppliers purely on cost and efficiency.

CIPS Level 5

Advanced Diploma in Procurement and Supply

Level 5 elevates the professional from a strategic buyer to a strategic manager. The focus shifts toward mitigating enterprise-level risk, managing teams, and aligning procurement activities with the over-arching financial goals of the organisation.

Target Audience

- Management Tier: Senior buyers, supply chain managers, and category managers who oversee staff and manage multi-million-dollar portfolios.
- Risk Architects: Professionals responsible for ensuring the company's supply chain can withstand global disruptions (pandemics, geopolitical shifts, natural disasters).

Entry Requirements

- You need to complete the CIPS Level 4 Diploma first, pass 8 total modules for 60 credits.

Course Structure

- L5M1 - Managing Teams and Individuals (12)
- L5M2 - Managing Supply Chain Risk (6)
- L5M3 - Managing Contractual Risk (6)
- L5M4 - Advanced Contract & Financial Management (12)
- L5M5 - Managing Ethical Procurement and Supply (6)
- L5M6 - Category Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M7 - Achieving Competitive Advantage Through the Supply Chain (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M8 - Project and Change Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M9 - Operations Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M10 - Logistics Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M15 - Advanced Negotiation (6) (ELECTIVE)

Five core modules make up 42 of the required credits. Three elective modules will make 18 of required credits.

Learning Outcomes & Real-World Application

Advanced Risk Management

Candidates learn to build risk registers, calculate the probability and financial impact of supply chain failures, and design contingency plans that keep the business running during crises.

Financial Acumen

They dive deep into corporate finance. Learners master how to read balance sheets, analyse supplier cash flow, and demonstrate exactly how procurement savings improve the company's bottom line (EBITDA).

Leadership and Change Management

The curriculum teaches frameworks for leading teams through organisational change, resolving severe conflicts, and managing the performance of direct reports.

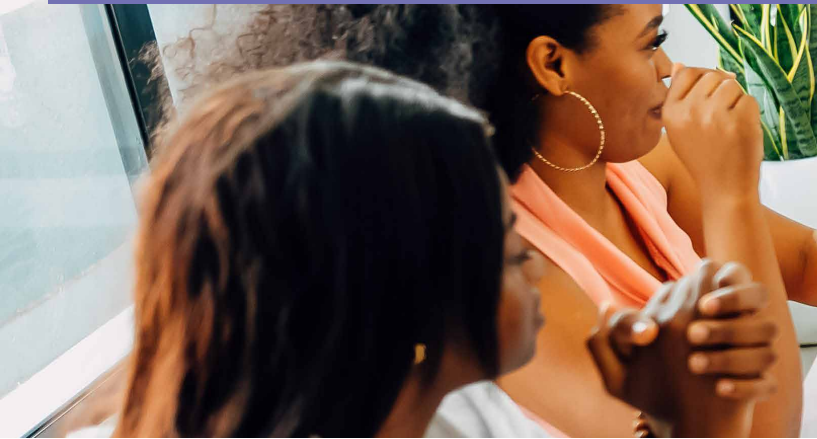

Advanced Category Management

Candidates learn to take a holistic view of entire categories of spend (e.g., all IT hardware or all marketing services), developing long-term strategies that drive innovation and continuous improvement rather than just immediate cost savings.

CIPS Level 6 (MCIPS)

Professional Diploma in Procurement and Supply

This is the pinnacle of the qualification, designed for those who will sit at the executive table. It is less about procurement mechanics and entirely about executive leadership, global network design, and corporate influence.

Target Audience

- Executive Leaders: Chief Procurement Officers (CPOs), Supply Chain Directors, and Global Heads of Sourcing.
- Visionaries: Professionals who dictate company policy, drive enterprise-wide digital transformation, and hold the authority to reshape the company's entire supply network.

Entry Requirements

- You need to complete the CIPS Level 4 Diploma first, pass 8 total modules for 60 credits.

Course Structure

- L5M1 - Managing Teams and Individuals (12)
- L5M2 - Managing Supply Chain Risk (6)
- L5M3 - Managing Contractual Risk (6)
- L5M4 - Advanced Contract & Financial Management (12)
- L5M5 - Managing Ethical Procurement and Supply (6)
- L5M6 - Category Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M7 - Achieving Competitive Advantage Through the Supply Chain (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M8 - Project and Change Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M9 - Operations Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M10 - Logistics Management (6) (ELECTIVE)
- L5M15 - Advanced Negotiation (6) (ELECTIVE)

Five core modules make up 42 of the required credits.
Three elective modules will make 18 of the required credits.

Learning Outcomes & Real-World Application

Strategic Ethical Leadership

Candidates evaluate complex leadership theories and apply them to drive a culture of compliance and ethics across multinational, multi-tier supply chains.

Global Network Design

Candidates learn to architect supply chains from the ground up, making executive decisions on offshoring vs. nearshoring, balancing extreme cost efficiency against necessary resilience.

C-Suite Influence

The curriculum focuses heavily on communication at the board level. Learners master how to secure buy-in from the CEO and CFO for massive, high-stakes procurement initiatives.

Future-Proofing the Enterprise

Candidates learn to analyse macroeconomic trends, anticipate disruptive technologies (like AI and blockchain in logistics), and proactively position their organisation to gain a competitive advantage in the future market.

A Message from Our CEO

Md. Emamul Hasan (Managing Director & CEO)

Welcome to the London School of Higher Studies (LSHS, www.lshs.co.uk), a concern of Sampan Group (www.sampangroup.com.bd).

When we founded this institution, we had one distinct goal: to empower ambitious professionals to achieve their absolute highest potential. Procurement is the backbone of the global economy, and the world needs highly skilled leaders now more than ever.

By choosing to study CIPS with us, you are making a powerful commitment to your own future and to the future of the organisations you will lead. We are deeply honoured to be a part of your journey. My personal promise to you is that our entire institution is dedicated to providing you with the tools, support, and inspiration you need to succeed.

Academic Excellence: Words from the Academic Director

Muhammad Hoque (Academic Director & COO)

Our curriculum is rigorous, highly relevant, and globally respected.

As the Academic Director, my core priority is to ensure that your learning experience is seamless, engaging, and deeply rewarding. We constantly update our teaching methodologies to reflect the latest industry trends, from Artificial Intelligence to sustainable sourcing.

Our goal is simple: to ensure that when you step into an exam room and, more importantly, when you step into a boardroom, you are completely prepared to lead with confidence.

→ Meet Your Trainers

When you study at the London School of Higher Studies, you learn from the best in the business.

Our trainers are not just academics who only know the theory. They are fully MCIPS/FCIPS qualified, seasoned procurement veterans, ex-CPOs, and industry consultants. They have negotiated multi-million-pound contracts, navigated global supply crises, and built resilient supply chains from the ground up.

They bring real-world case studies, industry war stories, and practical insights into the virtual classroom, ensuring you learn what actually works in the field today, not just what is written in a book.
